
While we made the decision to cancel the 2020 SAME Capital Week and DOD & Federal Agency Program Briefings (which was scheduled for March 16-18 in Rockville, Md.) as part of the critical efforts ongoing our country to contain the spread of the coronavirus, we also know that the information provided by the government presenters is crucial to the near-term and long-term strategic planning of the A/E/C industry firms that support our nation and our military's critical facilities, infrastructure, and resilience needs.

The presentations (in PDF format) that the agencies were going to give are now available for download on the Capital Week website. Thank you to all our government presenters for providing their presentations to be shared with the SAME audience. The work that SAME members, partners, and stakeholders do is vital to national security, and building relationships and trust through their interactions in the Society has been a critical part of how they do it for 100 years.

Hear from the Department of Defense and other Federal Agency Leaders

Learn about the projected upcoming fiscal year engineering, construction and environmental programs from contracting representatives, flag and general officers, and senior executive service leaders from the engineering components of the military services and select federal agencies.
